I am the guardian of a lot of treasures. Everybody wants to find my treasures, but I have them very well hidden. Do you know where? When the rainbow appears, I keep them behind the rainbow's beginning. But don't tell others, it's a secret.

[Appears the farmer working the land in her farm]

- Oh! I am so tired today, I need a break!

[The farmer seated behind the tree and yawned]

[Sounds a scream]

- Be careful!!

- You almost kill me!

[The farmer asked him]

- Oh! Are you the Leprechaun?

[The leprechaun answered proudly]

- Yes, I am!

[Suddenly, the farmer captured the Leprechaun and put him into a cage]

- Please... leave me!!!

- I will leave you if you tell me where your treasures are.

- Okay... well, my treasures are behind the bush in front of the church, where the rainbow is born.

- Great, thanks!! But I won't leave you until I get the gold! So, you must come with me.

[The farmer took the Leprechaun with him and went to the bush]

- This is the bush I told you before. So, leave me.

- Oh! I need a spade to dig a hole and find the gold! Wait, I will truss you up to this tree with my red sock.

- But you promised me to leave me!! It is no fair.

- First, promise that you won't untie the sock, take the gold and escape.

- I promise.

- Nice!! I will come back in a minute.

[The farmer arrived from his house]

- Where is the Leprechaun?!!

[The red sock was tied to the tree, the Leprechaun accomplished his promise and he had tied a lot of red socks to the trees of the place]
